

Everything You Will Be, Comes From 7 Critical Choices

Career skills to help create high performers who are motivated and loyal

Keynote and Seminar Overview

- Accept challenges - embrace the opportunity for growth
- Take ownership for your career - create focus, passion and meaning
- Get over set-backs – consider them even more instructive than successes
- Use humor and kindness – benefit from these leadership traits
- Develop exceptional communication skills – people will trust you and your message
- Stick to your ethics and values – lead your team with character and integrity
- Recognition – enhance teamwork, loyalty, and motivation

Many professionals discover that they change careers two or three times in their lives. High potential employees and leaders embark on a path of lifelong learning where they develop the necessary skills to take advantage of opportunities.

Beyond technical skills, experience and knowledge, an organization's leadership look at your:

- Ability to communicate thoughts clearly and concisely
- Problem-solving skills and personality
- Interactions and personnel management

Dave Hill has had 3 interesting engineering careers that brought him to 78 countries...from areas of tribal unrest in the mountains of Papua New Guinea, to the shores of Ethiopia in Africa. He has worked as a Chief Engineer Officer on cargo ships, as an Accident Prevention Specialist, a Risk Engineer, and is now a Professional Speaker.

He is a storyteller and a humorist who was a finalist in the 2004 World Championship of Public Speaking.
